

Augusta Jan^y 14th 1862

Dear Leo

Yrs of the 8th is received. I agree with you as to the R J B. I am glad you have been so prompt in the Lubeck business. I am one of the N E Committee we have reported in part and have drafted a set of resolutions. They are nothing more than an assertion of abstract principles in which we all accord. The report had been signed by every member of the Committee. The most important resolution is substantially this - First Maine cannot consent to have her territory alienated on the recommendation of a foreign power - there is nothing in our resolutions which militates with the rightful exercise of power in the U S - I do not consider the U S under the slightest obligation to agree to the recommendation of the King of the Netherlands - The reasons are obvious I will not therefore take time & paper in detailing them - Not considering the U S under obligations I hope they will not agree to it - and that the subject may be held open for future negotiation We have now ascertained what England wants and at any time we may obtain to the extent now awarded we may gain by negotiation we cannot lose and by adopting this course the storm is averted for the present - We are here in a great ferment occasioned by the article in the Argus of the 6th referred to in my last - which has been followed up in that of the 13 - Jo to P P- mad he ought to be put under guardianship the democratic members of the Legislature if I mistake not will speak in a voice of Thunder - The guard must be put down instant

Augusta Jan^y 14th 1862

Dear Leo

Yrs of the 8th is received. I agree with you as to the R J B. I am glad you have been so prompt in the Lubeck business. I am one of the N E Committee we have reported in part and have drafted a set of resolutions. They are nothing more than an assertion of abstract principles in which we all accord - The report had been signed by every member of the Committee- The most important resolution is substantially this - First Maine cannot consent to have her territory alienated on the recommendation of a foreign power - there is nothing in our resolutions which militates with the rightful exercise of power in the U S - I do not consider the U S under the slightest obligation to agree to the recommendation of the King of the Netherlands - The reasons are obvious I will not therefore take time & paper in detailing them- Not considering the U S under obligations I hope they will not agree to it - and that the subject may be held open for future negotiation We have now ascertained what England wants and at any time we may obtain to the extent now awarded we may gain by negotiation we cannot lose and by adopting this course the storm is averted for the present- We are here in a great ferment occasioned by the article in the Argus of the 6th referred to in my last- which has been followed up in that of the 13 - Jo to P P- mad he ought to be put under guardianship the democratic members of the Legislature if I mistake not will speak in a voice of Thunder - The guard must be put down instantes

Contributed to Maine Memory Network by Maine Historical Society (Coll. 20, Box 1/3)
Date: Jan. 14, 1862
Description: Charles Jarvis letter regarding Maine's boundaries.

or the party will receive an injury beyond redemption - If P thinks that there are those who are for shoving him out of the way I do not wonder that he feels sore but I have no idea of any man however exalted his talents arrogating to himself the sole direction - We the people are not puppets to be operated upon by every political aspirant if we are our ~~Republican~~ institutions are based on sand
The Athenian voted against Aristides because he could not bear that only one man in the city should be denominated Just much less can we bear that any man should arrogate that title ^{to} himself - I feel that I am a looker on here in Venice that I stand aloof & independent of any factions which may exist in the party - I enter not into their quarrels but I cannot stand idly by and see those who ought to stand shoulder to shoulder endangering the great Interests we have at stake by their bickerings for offices - I feel that we the people are the masters and that we have a right to command peace among our servants - The Argus began and it is my feeling that the Argus must be stopped or the Argus will be put down - In what I have said you will understand me to express my own sentiments uninfluenced by any ones and you know that I have

or the party will receive an injury beyond redemption - If P
thinks that there are those who are for shoving him out of
the way I do not wonder that he feels sore but I have no
idea of any man however exalted his talents arrogating
to himself the sole direction - We the people are not puppets
to be operated upon by every political aspirant if
we are our Republican institutions are based on sand
The Athenian voted against Aristides because he could not bear
that only one man in the city should be denominated Just
much less can we bear that any man should arrogate
to that title ^ himself - I feel that I am a looker on here in Venice - that I stand aloof & independent of any factions

which may exist in the party - I enter not into their quarrels
but I cannot stand idly by and see those who ought
to stand shoulder to shoulder endangering the great Interests we have at stake by their bickerings for
offices - I feel that we the people are the masters
and that we have a right to command peace
among our servants - The Argus began and it is
my feeling that the Argus must be stopped or the Argus
will be put down - In what I have said you
will understand me to express my own sentiments
uninfluenced by any ones and you know that I have always considered my own feelings as a tolerable faithful barometer of the sentiments of a great majority of the honest politicians of the country. Without relying however ^{entirely} on this barometer I have heard but one opinion expressed by our democratic friends who have not the slightest sympathy with those understood to be denounced excepting as that sympathy may have been excited by the course of the Argus. My opinion is that P has cut his own throat, and has d—d his chance for the Senate.

Yrs ever

Charles Jarvis

always considered my own feelings as a tolerable faithful
barometer of the sentiments of a great majority of the
honest politicians of the country. Without relying entirely

however ^ on this barometer I have heard but one opinion expressed by our democratic friends who
have not the slightest sympathy with those understood
to be denounced excepting as that sympathy may have
been excited by the course of the Argus - My opinion is that
P has cut his own throat and has d—d his chance
for the Senate -

Yr's ever

Charles Jarvis