

Bridgton May the 22^d 1813.

Dear Sister

While Day and night are mixed and struggling for preminence as if each were loth to yeild, I have risen from a night of sweet repose, to ^{the} enjoyment of the best of health, and the endearing society of numerous Friends. yet while I am enjoying the smiles of benificent Providence I do not forget my absent relatives and friends, the ties of consanguinity cling firmly to the fibers of my hearts. 'Tis this that has called me from the vortex of abstruse study and reciprocal conversation, to write to my Sister a pleasing employment and one which shall even be adhered to by Josiah, for I would not have you think I write merely to answer your good letters, by way of compliment for I proposed writing a letter to Calvin this day before I recieved yours (by A. Brown last evening). your epistle gave me great enjoyment for it brought me the news of ^{the} health of my friends which will always be a source of pleasure to me, I was glad to hear of the returning health of Mr. H. and I was in hopes to hear the same of the worthy Deborah but your letter has extinguished them. I thank you for your solicitude for my welfare, but I would have give yourself no uneasiness about my studies in the manner you expressed, for my mind is capable I believe of bearing considerable degree of application and my body has been used to exercises, you know the obstacles in the way of my education, therefore I ought to make a good improvement of the time afforded me. My Dear Sister excuse the brevity of this letter for Mr. Bowers is in haste to depart. ere long I will write you a longer one. and will inform of our school &c.

Contributed to Maine Memory Network by an individual through Maine Historical Society
Date: May 22, 1813
Description: Josiah Pierce on education at Bridgton Academy

Bridgton May the 22^d 1813.

Dear Sister

While Day and night are mixed and struggling for preminence as if each were loth to yeild, I have risen from a night of the sweet repose, to ^ enjoyment of the best of health, and the endearing society of numerous Friends. yet while I am enjoying the smiles of benificent Providence I do not forget my absent relatives and friends, the ties of consanguinity cling firmly to the fibers of my heart; T'is this that has called me from the vortex of abstruse study and reciprocal conversation, to write to my Sister a pleasing employment and one which shall even be adhered to by Josiah, for I would not have you think I write mer^ely to answer your good letter, by way of compliment for I proposed writing a letter to Baldwin this day before I recieved yours (by A. Brown last evening). your epistle gave me great enjoyment for it brought me the news of ^ health, of my friends which will always be a source of pleasure to me, I was glad in to hear of the returning ^ health of M^{rs} H and I was in hopes to learn the same of the worthy Deborah but your letter has extinguished them; I thank you for your solicitude for my welfare, but I would have give yourself no uneasiness about my studies in the manner you expressed for my mind is capable a I believe of learning ^ considerable degree of application and my body has been used to exercise; your know the obstacles in the way of my education, therefore I ought to make a good improvement of the time afforded to me - - - My Dear Sister excuse the brevity of this letter for M^r Bowers is in haste to depart. ere long I will write a longer one. and will inform of our school &c.

a

I am still studying the langu^age in which the great Demosthenes spoke to listening Athens, & which the Godlike Socrates display'd his wisdom . . --- and I am much pleased with it & it recieves new charms in coming from M^r C. who is ever ready to assist me his great attention to me is allmost to flatering to my vanity, but I must hasten to say, vale, your friends here are all in good health M^r Cushman desires his compliments to you & sisters; he speaks in the highest terms of his visit to Bald.... Seba S. & [?] Andrews desire to be particularly remembered to all my sisters: as do also the Misses Beaman[?] have the goodness to give my Filial love to my honored Parents likewise to Grandmaam. Also my Fraternal love to my sisters & Brothers, remember me to the misses [?]. likewise to Fanny S. Compliments to enquirers inate

respects to whom they are due, & believe me your affect^a

Brother Josiah

Hannah Pierce
 Post Scribe give the History of N York came safe in sufficient season, adieu