Dear Sir

I find the letter to Mr Wingate well felt rather straitened but will attend to it. I have ben Informed that his real Estat was bonded and that he was making some calculations that it would be taken and if he should make a sale of it I think he may offer you the hope which he may git for it he ses unless he can sel he cannot pay any moor and would it not be for your Interest to purchase the Land which he has bonded providing it is not taken in the bond perhaps in letting it stand much Longer may not be so well for you for I now think that he would sel anugh of the Land above the Bridge to pay the notes which you hold against him if you will purchase anugh of it at a fare price you can write me and I will manage for you and git his price and Lurn at what [price]

Description: Letter to William King from James A. Thompson.

the land is Bonded, I think that that part of his real estate which lies above the bridge must be good and will sel at a good Price even now he has had good offers for it but would never sel but now I expect he must sel or doe worse - if the times hold as they now are we shall all be obliged to give up the land to you unless we can pay you some other weigh than in money we have property enough to pay you but as for getting money it is out of the question but we live in hopes that we shall see better times I think I can see that it would be to your advantage to doe as I have recommended and I think if I could see you I could satisfy you

Yours Respectfully
