

11

Augusta (1862)
July 12, 1862

Dear Bro,

I wish you would tell A.L. <sup>if you have a mind to</sup> that in my opinion Mac. is a poor devil, & that if he don't find it out soon, his adm<sup>n</sup> is ruined.

Oh. Why with such an army, such expenditures, such means of all kind such unequalled soldiers, such every thing will he submit to such miserable results? How many more men must McClellan send to their death in swamps & because he wont have negros employ'd to save their lives? in guarding rebels & other kindred philanthropic efforts?

Unless there is a change of policy another three hundred thousand

Augusta
July 12, 1862

Dear Bro,

I wish you would
if you have a mind to tell A.L. ^ that in my opinion Mac. is a poor devil, & that
if he don't find it out soon, his
adm<sup>n</sup> is ruined.

On why with such an army, such expenditures such means of all kind
such unequalled soldiers, such every
thing will he submit to such miserable
results? How many more men
must McClellan send to their death
in swamps & because he wont have negros employed to save their lives in guarding rebels & other kindred philanthropic
efforts?

Unless there is a change of policy
another three hundred thousand

men will be called for by Oct.
other legal tender notes required & the worst possible results will be upon us -

It is a fearful thing, this needless decimation by reason of incompetent officers, & disease, of our noble & gallant youth -

The negro policy has cost us 25,000 lives, each are of worth more than all the rebels in the South -

Write me what the future intends -

Yours truly
I. Washburn

Hon. E. B. Washburn
Washington D.C.

men will be called for by Oct.
other legal tender notes required
& the worst possible results will
be upon us.

It is a fearful thing, this
needless decimation by reason
of incompetent officers, & disease,
of our noble & gallant youth.

The negro policy has cost us
2500 lives, each are of worth
more than all the rebels in
the South.

Write me what the future intends.

Yours Truly
I. Washburn

Hon. E. B. Washburn
Washington D.C.