as for me I'd rather have it cool all day & night, never mind this changing first to one & then another.
So far I haven't seen any frost but it's pretty cool just the same.

Sorry to hear you lost all your flowers but next summer you'll probably have better ones. You sure was lucky you picked the most of them the day before ay what.

The first I heard about Pop getting married was in the letter from Bob. I guess he was a little surprised to. But I still think he got married to quick it would of been a lot better if he had waited till the whole thing was over with but it's his ~~life~~ life to live not ours so what make the differents I wouldnt be serprised if Bob to change his mind & that probly is about enough to do it. don't you think

Does Bob write to you how he likes the South ey what. boy what a place he call it. He don't know how lucky he was while he was in Mass. for such a long time. So far the South be as good as N.E.

tuff luck but probly before the baby grows up she probly will have them back your old room & sleep on my bed & have a soft mattress for a change. I know you will like the bed compared to yours. Now I don't mean for you to change beds but I mean use mine. now go ahead & use it. Do you hear.

I wished I could see there to help you fix up the hen house & get it ready for the winter but it just isn't so. I'm sure glad to hear the hens are laying now & then & hope you don't keep losing the only one like we used to.

I wrote to Biddie & he answered it but after answering it he has never answered again. But Aunt Annie writes & tells all the news. I guess he is quite busy.
Best of Luck your Loving Son
