most welcome attention, and be very agreeable to these distinguished gentlemen here, as an expression at least of the recognition by Longfellow's fellow citizens of Maine of the honor done him here; and that if any farther expression on the part of the Committee here to Mr. Houghton, of its wish to oblige the Maine Historical Society, may be needed, they may aid, as they doubtless will, in obtaining such an expression —

Much now depends, of course, on the influence of the Poet's family at home. I shall be glad to learn from you
