My Dear Jewett,
I suppose you are thinking what a rotter I am for never writing you. I acknowledge my slackness & hope I may be forgiven. Many thanks for your last letter (of goodness knows how long ago) & also for the interesting little talk on Wilson, which was forwarded to me by Mrs. Groos.
It's quite correct & points out a lot I'm afraid some of us did not realize or ignored. Well any way "Your Boys" are in it now with Both feet & I'm jolly sure will make the Bosche sorry for himself before the job is over. I've seen a lot of the Yank out here & I know they're "out for business"
Who would have thought 4 years ago England would celebrate the day we gave you Independence?
Well I've been out here long enough now to [entitle] me to leave? I'm looking forward to it as I never looked to anything in my life. It takes a life like this to make one realize the comforts of home.
I came out here in the winter & I can assure

Well I've been out here long enough now to [entitle] me to leave? I'm looking forward to it as I never looked to anything in my life. It takes a life like this to make one realize the comforts of home.

I came out here in the winter & I can assure you that life in tents when it's freezing is not everything we could wish for I lose all my kit in the pack of March (for the second time).

Glad to say at present we are comfortably quartered in huts but they do hold the best Am getting quite used to Ch?? now & find on the whole they work well.
Wish we could entirely stop the gambling tho'
as they get very [?] at times I suppose Peter is quite a young man now & wondering when he will be called up.
Hope this job will be over long before he is eligible. Things will be very different I'm afraid when we get back to Biz
For me I'm afraid it will be like starting again Fortunately IPB are going in ok but they tell me paper that used to cost me 2 d [pence] per let? are now 1/6 but there's no difficulty in selling it.
We get good food & plenty of it here but not of course the variety one gets in civil life.
I hear Anlers [?] is still talking big & doing nothing Well Cheerio kindest regards to Mrs. Jewett & Peter
Yours very sincerely
F.E. Guntlebay 2/hs

PS Glad to say Ida is quite OK although feeling very lonely at times. There's not even the rainbow cakes to be had.
